Six Candidates Admitted by Judge Armstrong Yesterday at Regular Friday Matinee.

Stories of non-support, desertion, cruelty, incompatibility and infidelity were related to Judge Armstrong a the regular weekly divorce matinee Friday afternoon. Half a dozen divorces were granted and several dilatory hus bands were reminded firmly that they bands were reminded firmly that they had better pay up back alimony. The alternative was not mentioned, but it seemed to be well understood.

Mary C. W. Hansen Crane Sterling, 45 years of age, of Irish extraction, three times married, told the court that she did not want to live longer with James D. Sterling, as he had failed to contribute to her support since April 1, 1916, and that was no joke. She was given her divorce and her maiden name of Crane was restored to her.

Report, confirmed by friends of Mrs. Sterling, now Mrs. Crane by order of the court, says that she will soon be married again and that without changing the name given her by the court. She was divorced from Joseph A. Crane on Oct 4, 1907, and now it is understood she is to marry him again, so that he loses the position in line of second husband.

Mrs. Crane's matrimonial record is a second husband and becomes fourthusband.

Mrs. Crane's matrimonial record is a checkered one. Following the death of her husband, John Hansen, she married Crane. In July of 1907 she filled suit for divorce on the grounds of cruelty and habitual drunkenness, and on Oct. 4, 1907, she was granted a divorce from Crane and the custody of an adopted son, John W. Crane, and her interest in 13 acres of land at Bluff Dale, this county, for permanent allmony. Mrs. Crane married Sterling June 24, 1909, and the divorce granted Friday ends the Sterling romance.

MUST PAY BACK ALIMONY.

MUST PAY BACK ADMONT.

Daniel McMillan was haled before the court on an order to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court in failing to pay Mary Jane McMillan alimony decreed by the court. McMillan said that he had been engaged in business pursuits for the past two years, but that during that time he had not made a cent of money and was now living on borrowed money. Since Jan. 10, 1910, he had paid his divorced wife only $38 and the arhis divorced wife only $38 and the arrears, he admitted, amounted to over $400, temporary and permanent ali-stop, temporary and permanent animony.

"If you haven't made anything in two years, why do you stay in business, a big strong man like you?" queried Judge Armstrong.

McMillan's reply was inaudible. He attempted to explain to the court but was cut short in his explanation.

"I'll give you just two weeks to get some money," said Judge Armstrong, and there was a look on his face that McMillan could not fail to understand. Celia Jones was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from Claude Jones, on the grounds of desertion and non-support. They were married at Mendon, Utah, in April, 1908. Mrs. Jones says that he deserted her on Oct. 13, 1908. At present he is working as a fireman on the Oregon Short Line at Glenn's Ferry, Ida.

Jennie Karkeek failed to get her diverce from James Karkeek on account of insufficiency of evidence. She said veree from James Karkeek on account of insufficiency of evidence. She said they were married at Bute, Mont., in 1897, and that there are three children issue of the marriage. On numerous occasions he struck her with his fist and accused her of infidelity, she said. John Wilson, a witness, called to testify in her behalf, said that he had just arrived in town Thursday night and that, of his own knowledge, he did not know anything concerning the alknow anything concerning the al-tions made. "I have been receiving letters from her, though," he said. The rase was continued until further evidence could be brought in.

MORE DELINQUENT HUSBANDS. On an order to show cause, William On an order to show cause, William R. Russell was ordered to pay Mag-gie Russell $50 attorney's fees and $40 a month temporary alimony. During pendency of a divorce ac-tion, Vannie Walton was ordered by the court to pay Voerma Walton

An order was entered in the case of Auline Riley against Charles Riley, directing that Riley pay his wife $20 a month temporary alimony during the pendency of the action and $25 attoracy's fees.

Nora Wallace was granted an inter-Nora Wallace was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from Richard E. Wallace on the ground of desertion. They were married on Nov. 27,

ORCHESTRA NEEDS HELP.

Appeal Made to Club Women by Goshen and Spencer.

An appeal was made at Friday aft rnoon's meeting of the Ladies' Literary club by Rev. E. I. Goshen and John D. Spencer for support of the Salt Lake D. Spencer for support of the Salt Lake Symphony orchestra in the shape of co-operation with the orchestra in raising funds to maintain it. Mr. Goshen was eloquent in his representation of the good accomplished by the orchestra, holding that Salt Lake could not afford to allow this cherished institution to die. He later expressed confidence that the appeal to the women had not been made in vain, and that material aid would be forthcoming.

Ladies' Literary Club Takes Action in Regard to

IN THE INTEREST OF FAIRNESS

Final Action Will Not be Taken Until General Meeting of Club Members in November.

At the meeting of the Ladies' Literary club, held yesterday afternoon, in regard to the plans for the new club house, which is to be crected on east South Temple, a minority report, objecting to the action of the building committee in accepting the plans of Ware & Treganza, was offered and ordered published by the general meeting. Because of the lateness of the hour the report was not discussed, and hour the report was not discussed, and was not even read. The result was the motion of Mrs. William C. Jennings, herself a member of the building committee, who asked that the matter be given full publicity in the interest of fairness. The report follows:

"Realizing that the directors are servants of the club, and are responsible for any acts to the 235 women whose money, time and influence constitute the basis of general esteem upon which the credit of the club rests, we, the minority of the board of directors, respectfully submit the following as reasons why we cannot indorse the last action of the board in accepting the plans of Ware & Treganza for the new club house:

lub house:
"First-The competition has not beer club house:

"First—The competition has not been fair and open as should be the case of a public organization, and as the Litterary club purports to be. No plan except the one voted upon has had the opportunity of being explained or corrected by its author. The architects assert that no plan has had a fair presentation even before the building committee. No other architects except Ware & Treganza have had the opportunity to change or add to their plans. No item of the accepted plan has been submitted officially to an unbiased, practical builder for affirmation or dissent. For example, the walls of the accepted plan are open to criticism, as it is doubtful if such walls will stand the strain of a three-story building, the architects themselves not guaranteeing the stability of the walls.

the strain of a themselves not guaranteeing the stability of the walls.

"Second—To even call in question the courtesy of such a club as the Ladies' Literary club is to reflect allke upon the fairness and dealing and dignity of character of the individual members of the club. Four reputable architects asked the board of directors a stay of proceedings. It was in the highest degree discourteous for the vote of the board of Thursday, Oct. 27, 1910, to be taken Ignoring this courteous request on the part of reputable men of the community. The time and money spent by them in preparing these plans, which they did, waiving all fees and prizes, entitle them to fair consideration.

"Third—Lawyers of repute have given the opinion that not only is the club in danger of losing its reputation for dignity and fairness, but that the body is in danger also of incurring a civil action in the courts of Utah in the way of an injunction preventing the use of the accepted plans until the directors can prove that they have decided fairly, after giving all plans just consideration.

"Fourth—The secretary's minutes of April 8, recording the action of the club, read as follows: "The building committee shall formulate plans for the new club building.' The point that only one plan should be submitted to the directors is therefore well taken. It is in the highest degree improper that the building committee should have officially informed the other architects in competition that they might go and get back their rejected plans before any of them had been submitted to the board of directors. In the case of the lot involving $7,500, the building committee submitted several lots for consideration. In the case of the club building involving $22,500 only lots for consideration. In the case of the club building involving $22,500 only one proposition is submitted.

"Firth—The minority has no personal bias toward any one set of plans, nor toward any one architect, but are acting solely for what they believe is for the good of the club as a whole, and if any director objects to the labor involved in looking over all plans submitted we feel she is not performing her duty in the best interests of the club."

All action on the reports will be delayed till the regular monthly meeting of the club, which will be held in Noof the club, which will be held in No vember.
